Homebrewer Hosts Again

Mr. Rob Bates kindly opened the doors of his shop to the WZZ constituency last month on a fine spring evening. Although I was unable to attend the soiree, all accounts confirm that it was an unqualified success.

Great Basin Brew Off Results

Congratulations go out to this year's GBBO best of show winner and WZZ member Jason Hobbs for his Honey Chamomile Wheat. There were many fine brews in the competition from all around the country this year, so it was good to see a local brewer take top honors.

Thanks again to Kirk Howell, who's exceptional organizational skills made this year's event a smashing success.

WZZ Skips A Month

A host couldn't be found for a May get together, so there will be no meeting this month. But fear not intrepid brewers - the date for Tom's fabulous Frank 'N Stein meeting is approaching rapidly. Mark Saturday June 8 on your calendar for this beastly Bacchanalia! Look for full details in next month's newsletter.

Editor's note: July will be my last outing as author and editor of the newsletter. If you're interested in carrying on this fine tradition, contact Rob Bates at the Reno Homebrewer.

Upcoming meetings:

June 8 - Tom's annual Frank 'N Stein

July - TBD

Under the Rose Brewing

A new brewery is slated to open in Reno this July. UTR will be located on E. 4th St. near Valley road and will be part of the redevelopment for that area. It will feature a tasting room and game room, but no restaurant. The name is taken from the fact that Reno sits under the mountain of the same name.
